In a shocking finding, scientist discovered a herd of unicorns living in a remote, previously unexplored valley, in the Andes Mountains. Even more surprising to the researchers was the fact that the unicorns spoke perfect English. The scientists were so surprised by this discovery that they immediately contacted the US Army Corps of Engineers and asked them if they could send some men down to investigate further.

The army engineers agreed to help, but only on one condition: They wanted all the research results destroyed! This request was refused, as it would have taken too long for the scientists to analyze everything before destroying it. Instead, the government decided that all the information should be kept secret until after World War III had been won.

> You research the unicorns and attempt to invent a weapon that harnesses the unicorns' power.

In a bold move, the U.S. government begins funding the research of an American inventor who has been struggling to create a weapon that harnesses the power of the unicorns' unique magical nature. It is hoped that this weapon can be used to help win World War III. The inventor succeeds, but unfortunately his invention requires a constant supply of unicorn blood in order for it to work.

> You breed the unicorns in order to obtain more unicorn blood.

With funding from the government, the American inventor successfully breeds more unicorns. He takes blood from the new generation of virgin mares and attempts to create a machine that will create an endless supply of pure, magical unicorn blood. The machine works, but the mares begin dying after giving birth. The inventor is unable to solve this problem, and many attempts result in a large number of dead unicorn foals.

> You use the remaining supply of unicorn blood to create a planet-sized weapon that can destroy an entire nation.

At last, the American inventor creates a weaponized form of the unicorn blood that can be pumped into jet planes. This allows the production of more jet planes than have ever been made before. As a result, the U.S. Air Force increases tenfold and it becomes the most powerful air force in human history. Using this advantage, the U.S. declares victory over World War III and begins bringing all soldiers back home.

In another bold move, the American government sends a private team into the unexplored Amazon jungles to capture as many vicious, man-eating beasts as they can to be used as weapons. They succeed, and begin training them to use human soldiers as targets. This becomes an interesting way to break up the monotony of war.

After three years of peace, the U.S. launches an attack on the small, impoverished nation of Cuba.
